The choice to highlight its range in the Distant Blue color is based on projections of kitchen design and décor trends, positioning shades of blue as the year's choice accent colors in new homes and remodels. Additionally, this choice speaks to Capital's ability to customize its ranges, without limits, utilizing hundreds of classic color options from the industry leading RAL Color Standard.

"By showcasing and creating this exceptional colored range, we're showing customization at its best, said Tom Caulfield, Executive Vice President, Capital Cooking. He continued, "Designers, architects and consumers alike are looking to create an experience; custom appliances, personalized and personified, without sacrificing performance and quality. At Capital, we create a range as unique as the individual, from the exterior color to the accessories that complement diverse culinary cooking styles."

Capital Cooking products are manufactured in the US, and are distributed by Almo Premium Appliances.
