

Forbes & Lomax | AD Design Show

Visit booth 236 to see their high-end light switches and outlets

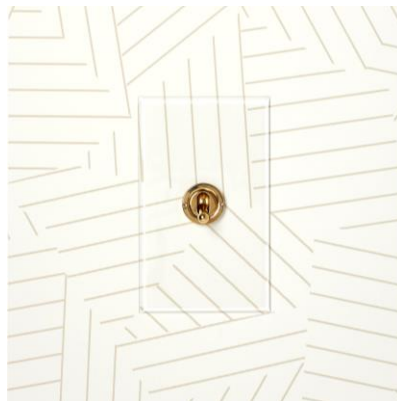

New York, NY – March 2019

Forbes & Lomax is pleased to bring their unique collection of high-end decorative light switches and outlets to the AD Design Show.

A designer favorite, the brand has always approached the market from an aesthetic point of view, and offers an attractive alternative to standard electrical accessories. They have pioneered screwless, flush-fitting wall plates with toggles and dimmers - combining a sleek design with all the advantages of modern technology.

Offering a range of lustrous finishes, including Nickel Silver, Unlacquered Brass, and beautiful Aged Brass -which adds instant character to any interior. In all, there are seven finishes to choose from, including their Invisible Lightswitch® range, which pairs beautifully with wallcoverings or paint for a seamless look.

Designed to suit contemporary or period properties, Forbes & Lomax switches and outlets will add elegance and sophistication to your interior projects.

About Forbes & Lomax:

Established in London over 20 years ago, Forbes & Lomax was inspired by the elegant nickel, bronze, and glass switches of the 1930's. As they were no longer available, it was with this in mind that they launched the Invisible Lightswitch® a transparent plate with a stylish metal toggle switch. Over the years they have added to the range of high quality switches, outlets, and dimmers to suit the demands of discerning architects and interior designers.
