ABOUT TWENTY ONE TONNES

Twenty One Tonnes is a home decor brand that celebrates traditional craft and global style. Collections can be found in their online shop www.twentyonetonnes.com and at a growing list of retail stockists.

With a masters of International Development and a love of good design, Chessa Osburn married her two interests and founded Twenty One Tonnes in 2010. Mary Jane Bolton joined the business in 2015 after ten years in the film industry. Long time friends, they strive to do trade in a way that supports tradition, sustainability, and local economies, which means collaborating with small-scale artisans to design quality products that are made by hand from natural materials. Collections are therefore limited, and no two products are exactly alike. www.twentyonetonnes.com

Additional facts about Twenty One Tonnes:

- Twenty One Tonnes started in 2010 as a small trade project focusing on a few Moroccan artisans
- Scope of the business has shifted to collaborative design of exclusive collections from Ghana and Mexico
- A collection of textiles made in Mexico to be released in the coming year.
- A minimal, modernist take on global living
