

VAUGHAN

Vaughan, one of the world's most renowned designers and manufacturers of decorative lighting, furniture and accessories, is delighted to be exhibiting at The Architectural Digest Design Show for the second year. The booth features Vaughan classics alongside new additions to the collection.

Exciting new products include contemporary ceramic table lamps. The Longton Faceted Table Lamp has a fettle earthenware column which is finished with a white satin glaze. The Lockton Table Lamp has hand applied 'sprigging' which is a skilled pottery technique for separately applying formed clay blocks onto the main body. Both are part of a collection of five new lamps made in the world famous Stoke on Trent pottery studios in the UK. Designed by Vaughan's in-house studio.

The new Stepney Pendant Light, features a simply elegant hand blown inverted tulip shaped glass shade. It is made from cast brass components with a bronze finish and a fixed rod. Available in a bronze or brass finish.

Look for Vaughan's new Carisbrooke Lantern and the timeless Colombier Chandeliers presented in the show's entry way. The Carisbrooke makes a large scale statement as the newest addition to the leaf motif designs that have become a defining style in the Vaughan offering. Featuring sculpted cast brass leaves, silver-soldered and interspersed on the intricately mottled brass tubing frame. Designed by Vaughan's in-house studio.

About Vaughan

Since 1983, Vaughan has been supplying the world's most beautiful homes, boutique hotels, restaurants and galleries with top quality, classic and contemporary lighting, furniture and textiles. Founders, artist-designer couple, Michael and Lucy Vaughan, bring their artistic eye, discerning sense of style and meticulous attention to detail to the heart of the company. Their artist-led philosophy provides direction and guidance to their in-house design studio, where every new product is designed exclusively.

Traditional and authentic manufacturing methods are used and products are nearly always made, assembled, or finished in the UK. Using the finest materials, such as solid cast brass, even when plating with chrome or nickel, their Hampshire factory employs an outstanding team of engineers, craftspeople and skilled workers to ensure exemplary standards of production. Vaughan calls upon a selection of the best independent craft experts, from blacksmiths to makers of handblown crystal and embroidery.
